Jesus feeds the 5000 - John 6:5-15

A still life arrangement on a light-colored stone floor. In the foreground, two fish are laid out, one slightly overlapping the other. Behind them is a large, round loaf of brown bread. A piece of coarse, tan burlap fabric is draped over the bread and fish. To the right, the edge of a wicker basket is visible, showing its woven texture.

Here is a boy with five small barley loaves and 2 small fish, but how far will they go among so many?"

John 6:9

Do “I see you”?

A dark, cavernous space with a bright, glowing light source at the far end, creating a strong contrast and illuminating the surrounding rock walls. The light appears to be coming from a large opening or a fire, casting long shadows and highlighting the textures of the cave's interior. The overall atmosphere is mysterious and hopeful, suggesting a path through darkness towards light.

Questions for reflection and discussion

- How does God see us as believers in Christ?
- Do we respond to the people we encounter with Jesus' eyes or that of the Pharisees or religious leaders? Are we tuned into people in need at our workplace, church, community or even our family?
- Am I more an "Illuminator" or "Diminisher"? What can I do to be an illuminator where Jesus has placed me at work, church, community or family?
- Why is it important for me as an individual to see individuals through and with Jesus' eyes?
